Vital Materials [REDACTED] 25X1A9a

25X1A9a

Mr. [REDACTED] of OSI/NED and Dr. [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] of OSI/ASD accompanied last week's trip to the Repository to review their Vital Material deposits. The NED representatives destroyed a considerable amount of obsolete material.

Twelve representatives from eight divisions of OCR visited the Repository during the past week to review their vital materials holdings. It is hoped that this review will assist us in obtaining a more adequate means of indexing OCR microfilmed deposits.

During the past week the Repository has been sorting all intellofax work cards to segregate raw intelligence index cards from finished intelligence cards. (We are authorized to destroy all film and corresponding index cards). So far, only 225,000 out of 4,000,000 cards involve finished intelligence. As we have been given approval to use the publication date rather than the date of accessioning in OCR (in determining the 18 month retention period), it is estimated that we may be able to destroy more than the 1,500,000 cards as originally estimated.

Latest reports indicate that the camera to be used in micro-filming the OCR/GR photo files will be delivered to Building 14 this week. The delay in the adoption of this camera and receipt of film has significantly delayed the start of filming as we have two operators waiting to begin filming.
